

The Ending Violence Association of BC is hiring an individual to work as a Regional Coordinator for Community Coordination for Women's Safety (CCWS) until March 31, 2020. The Coordinator will work as a member of the existing CCWS Team. The objective of this position is to enhance cross sector responses to violence against women in our province by supporting collaboration between police, child protection, criminal and family justice, health, victim support services, transition houses, counselling programs, Indigenous services, Immigrant programs and others to support and implement best practices that improve cross-sector coordination and responses to domestic violence and sexual assault.

We are open to negotiating working arrangements outside of the EVA BC office in any region of BC, provided that regular, reliable travel is feasible. CCWS staff manage numerous concurrent projects and juggle many responsibilities that include the administration of projects, developing, delivering and administering training, conducting research, writing reports, papers and proposals, and providing support for the community coordination initiatives and programs in the anti-violence field in BC.

Interested candidates should work from a feminist, anti-oppression perspective and have a combination of the following:

- Minimum 5 years of experience working with community coordination efforts that address violence against women, with exposure to Interagency Case Assessment Teams
- Knowledge of community development, collaboration and coordination
- A comprehensive understanding of the government systems, jurisdictions and programs in BC that respond to violence against women and a demonstrated ability to analyze and write about related policy
- Experience in the provision of working and training in the area of sexual and domestic violence, Indigenous, Immigrant, Disability and/or LGBT2S issues
- Demonstrated understanding of the issues of isolated and rural communities, large and small community based support victim organizations and of people who have been victimized and who experience marginalization and discrimination
- Excellent communication skills including experience in public speaking, training and communicating complex ideas

- Demonstrated excellence in written communication including experience developing and writing proposals, reports, protocols and presentation materials (i.e. PowerPoint)
- Proven ability to communicate effectively with various groups and different levels of government with tact and diplomacy.

Details:

- This part time position (3 days per week, 7.5 hours per day) will be compensated competitively.
- Interested individuals are invited to forward the following:
 1. Resume
 2. Covering letter outlining suitability to the position
 3. Three references with phone and email contact information
