

Champion's Pledge

To improve sexual assault community response and prevention

April is Sexual Assault Awareness Month, and April 10 to 16 is BC's Prevention of Violence Against Women Week. This April, I pledge to work with my community and be a champion for efforts to improve community response to and prevention of sexual assault.

To ensure positive outcomes I commit to:

- Make it a priority to believe and centre the experience of victims and survivors of sexual assault
- Support community efforts to build knowledge capacity and response to sexual assault
- Encourage province-wide access to knowledge and to response services for sexual assault

Positive outcomes for our community will include:

- Increased awareness of sexual assault
- Province-wide network of knowledge of sexual assault and support for the victims and survivors
- Improved capacity, supports and resources for community response to sexual assault
- Improved outcomes and increased safety for victims and survivors of sexual assault
